CITY WANTS ANOTHER CROSSING

The C.P.R. Doesn't Want to Give It and Consequently the Railway Commission Will Decide

Calgary, July 26th.—The railway commission sat again this morning. The Clareholm case was heard this morning. At present there are more crossings. At present they are, 400 feet apart. The town particularly wants a crossing at third avenue.

Mr. Bennett stated that the company was willing to have crossings at the following places: Road allowance south end, crossing at Centre avenue, crossing at Sixth avenue and north of block 120, at a place known as Division avenue. The Clareholm advocate, Mr. Bergeron said that even with this, farmers would have to go from a third to a half of a mile out of their way every time they went to the schools. Mr. Bennett replied that for some reason best known to themselves the town had put the weigh scales on the inconvenient side of the track. The town wants East Railway street put through in a straight line to meet Sixth avenue, and a crossing at Third avenue.

Wm. Moffatt, mayor of Clareholm, was put in the box. He said that the crossing asked for would better serve the business part of the town than any other. The business was all in the west of the town, between Second and Fourth avenues.

He showed the present inconvenience of getting at the weigh scales. The Clareholm Lumber Co., considered that they would benefit by not having a crossing at Third avenue. The town had a deed of certain property near this crossing, but the deed was lost. Clareholm was a fine grain-growing district, half a mile from the town. The business was all in the west of the town, between Second and Fourth avenues. He showed the present inconvenience of getting at the weigh scales. The Clareholm Lumber Co., considered that they would benefit by not having a crossing at Third avenue. The town had a deed of certain property near this crossing, but the deed was lost. Clareholm was a fine grain-growing district, half a mile from the town. The business was all in the west of the town, between Second and Fourth avenues.

Mr. Bennett said that the farmers wouldn't kick if they had a crossing at every street, which Mr. Moffatt admitted. Asked how many farmers used the weigh scales, Mr. Moffatt said 50 to 100 in one day, in 1906 and this spring. These were men loading cars direct without using the elevators. The statement was made Mr. Moffatt admitted that the petition was circulated because Centre street was not a legal crossing. Mr. Bennett attempted to prove that Mr.

Moffatt's was a personal interest, his hand being affected. The Third avenue crossing would increase the value of his property somewhat. Certain farmers would prefer elevators on the side of the track which was not affected by the railway crossings. The convenience of the railway had to be considered to some extent. "Are not three crossings in a mile sufficient?" One of the three, Mr. Moffatt replied was in a slough, and there was really only two crossings.

"Is the movement of cars at this point not very great in the shipping season?" "Yes, Centre street would be a safer crossing." Not admitted. The Enterprise Lumber Co. had given on the town certain property, with a verbal understanding that if a crossing wasn't put in at Third avenue the land reverted to the company. This deed was lost.

Mr. Bergeron asked the witness if Third avenue would supply the town better than all the other crossings. He said it would, and had possession in spite of there being no crossing, now crossed at Third avenue.

Mr. W. C. Howan, a councillor of Clareholm was called. He has a real business. The present arrangement was very inconvenient to him and his customers. The cost would not be reduced by the Third avenue crossing, but they would do more in the time. The objection of some people to Third avenue was because they understood Sixth avenue was closed. When they found out this was not the intention, several had signed the petition for the Third (Continued on last page)

BASE BALL

Clareholm Defeats the Champions of the South

On Friday last a good game of ball took place on the local diamond between the Clareholm and Taber base ball teams. As usual the Clareholm boys won but the score, 11 to 1, was not a good indication of the play, for the Taber team put up a much better game than the score would indicate. Their chief deficiency seemed to be in their batting. The home team did better batting in this game than in any other game this season. In fact their improvement in stick handling has been quite noticeable during the last two or three games played. The features of last Friday's game were many but we will only mention a few. In the second inning Clareholm made six runs. The 1st, 2nd, 4th and 8th were shutouts on both sides. In the 4th Taber made only one run when with the bases full Gerts passed a man to first thus forcing a run. In the last half of this inning Heynolds made a three base hit and this being followed by a two bagger by Gerts counted another run. Three more runs were made in the 5th when Wannamaker, Brown and J. E. Moffatt crossed the plate. In the 6th Wannamaker succeeded in losing the ball away beyond the right fielder and so made a home run.

Arrangements are about complete for the Clareholm team to go to Taber to play a return game on August 9th.

Bad Accident

While driving out to Mr. Grey's last Saturday afternoon Mrs. McKenney and a friend Mrs. Armstrong from North Dakota happened with rather a serious accident. The horse became unmanageable and in passing some hedge holes threw the occupants out. Both ladies were injured. Mrs. Armstrong escaped with a severe shaking up. Mrs. McKenney was not so fortunate. As a result of her fall she was unconscious for some time and had one of her ankles sprained. She has recovered so as to be out of bed but her ankle is still very painful.

Massey Harris

Delivery Day

On Tuesday July 30th the local Massey-Harris agency held their annual delivery of machinery. On this day 23 binders and some other machinery were turned out and the line-up in front of the ware-rooms was an imposing one. When the line-up was complete, Mr. C. D. Anderson took a photograph of it. The showing made speaks well for the popularity of the Massey-Harris machinery. The local agents Messrs Wannamaker and Tollington were assisted by Inspector Hemling and General Agent Gibson. The purchasers were treated to dinner at the Wilton hotel and their teams were taken care of at the livery stable.

Mr. W. G. Wragg has severed his connection with the Enterprise Lumber company and will leave for Ontario in a short time to see his father who is dangerously ill. For the time being Mr. K. Ferguson will have charge of the Enterprise Lumber Co's business here.

The labor question is going to be a serious one here during the coming harvest. The farmers are just beginning to wonder where they are going to get assistance to harvest the immense crops that we have here this year. Very little outside help has been needed here prior to this year but it is estimated that 500 men will be the very best number that will supply the demand. No one seems to have realized the difficulty the farmers are in better than those who are in a position to work out during the coming harvest. Many of them are asking $3.00 or $3.50 per day. In fact we know of one farmer, who, realizing the difficulty he would be in, offered a laborer $3.50 per day for the harvest season. We would advise the farmer not to be in a hurry to offer such wages. If he has to pay $3.50 per day for a laborer and 9 cents per bushel for threshing besides all his other outlays even with his bumper crop he will not have very much left. No ordinary laborer is worth $3.50 per day nor even $3.00. Most of the farmers, Fred & Noble are in communication with the C. P. R. in regard to this question and they have asked the Railroad Company to employ 500 men to this point. If this is done, farmers will be able to get laborers at from $2.00 to $2.50 per day, which would be a reasonable price.

It is disgraceful how some farmers after driving a considerable distance to town leave their horses stand for hours on the street in the boiling sun and at the mercy of the flies. Corporal Deakin has been getting after a few of them. For this anyone who has respect for a horse will give him credit. We would like to see him make an example of some of these people. We have noticed teams during this hot weather standing tied to a post on the street during the whole of the really hot part of the day from about 10 a.m. to 3 or 4 p.m. Men who would use their horses this way certainly need looking after and they may expect it if this thing is continued for the Corporal is not a man who shrinks his duty.

The Town Council have put up a good light for a street across the track on 3rd Ave., but whether they have won out or not we do not know. The railway commission reserved judgement which will be given out in a short time. One thing they did accomplish and that was a promise from the C.P.R. to establish a street east of the track on their right-of-way from Centre Street to 6th Ave. North.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

BURNS COAL OR WOOD
The Sunshine is a good, "all round" furnace. Burns with equal facility, either coal or wood. Cokes, too, if you prefer it. And so perfect is the combustion of the Sunshine that it extracts every unit of heat from the fuel. What's left in the ash-pit is not worth lifting. Sunshine consumes less fuel too. Because its perfect system of dampers prevent the escape of the hot air up the chimney—compels it to come out through the registers. You pay for heating the inside—not the outside—of your house when you buy the Sunshine. If your local dealer does not handle this most economical furnace write direct to us for FREE BOOKLET.

in month and eye, "what, in the court itself," she cried, "and in the neighborhood of the king's own person?"

"You will find, madame," said De Calnat sternly, "that members of my faith have not only stood around the throne of France, but have even seated themselves upon it."

"God has for his own all wise purposes permitted it, and none should know it better than I, whose grandfathers, Theodore d'Aubigny, did so much to place a crown upon the head of the great Henry. But Henry's eyes were opened ere his end came, and I pray—oh, from my heart I pray—that yours may be also."

She rose and, throwing herself down upon the prie-dieu, sunk her face in her hands for some few minutes. A tap at the door brought the lady back to this world again, and her devoted attendant answered her summons to enter.

"The king is in the Hall of Victories, madame," said she. "He will be here in five minutes."

"Very well. Stand outside and let me know when he comes. Now, sir," she continued when they were alone once more, "you gave a note of mine to the king this morning?"

"I did, madame."

"And, as I understand, Mme. de Montequen has refused admittance to the grand lever?"

"She was, madame."

"But she waited for the king in the passage and wrung from him a promise that he would see her today?"

"Yes, madame."

"I would not have you tell me that which it may seem to you a breach of your duty to tell. But I am fighting now against a terrible foe and for a great stake. Tell me, then, at what hour was the king to meet the marquise in her room?"

"At 4, madame."

"I thank you. You have done me a service, and I shall not forget it. Now you must go, captain. I have through the other room and so into the outer passage. And take this. It is the bishop's statement of the Catholic faith. It has softened the hearts of others and may yours. Now, adieu!"

De Calnat passed out through another door, and as he did so he glanced back. The lady had her back to him, and her hand was raised to the mantelpiece. At the instant that he looked she moved her neck, and he could see what she was doing. She was pushing back the long hand of the clock.

Captain de Calnat had hardly vanished through the one door before the other was thrown open by Mlle. Napoleon, and the king entered the room. Mme. de Montequen rose with a pleasant smile and greeted deeply, but there was no answering light upon her visitor's face, and he threw himself down upon the vacant armchair with a pouring lip and a frown upon his forehead.

"Nay, now this is a very bad complaint," she cried, with the gaiety which she could assume whenever it was necessary to draw the king from his blacker humors. "My poor little dark room has already cost a shilling over you."

"Nay; it is Father is Chaise and the bishop of Meaux, who have been after me all day like two hounds on a stag, with talk of my duty and my position and my sin, with judgment and hell fire ever at the end of their exhortations."

"And what would they have your majesty do?"

"Break the promise which I made when I came upon the throne, and which my grandfather made before me. They wish me to recall the edict of Nantes, and drive the Huguenots from the kingdom. You would not have me do it, madame?"

"Not if it is to be a grief to your majesty. Behold you, sire, that the Almighty can himself incline their hearts to better things if he is so minded, even as mine was inclined. May you not leave it in his hands?"

"On my word," said Louis, brightening. "It is well put. I shall see if Father in Chaise can find an answer to that. It is hard to be threatened with eternal flames because one will not ruin one's kingdom."

"Why should you think of such things, sire?" said the lady in her rich, soothing voice. "What have you to [to be continued.]

avenue crossing. Others had personal business reasons for opposing the new crossing.

To Mr. Bennett, Mr. Bowen said that he had paid out $75 for extra delivery. The town had never asked to have the weigh scales removed. If the haul were saved, both the public and himself would benefit. The town wanted more elevators. The scales were owned by Mr. Bowen. The public were charged for their use except for weighing coal. They had been located where they were by Mr. Moffatt, and had been bought from Mr. Moffatt by Mr. Bowen. The income from the scales could not be stated. They had weighed two or three carloads of grain per day forty or fifty loads.

Mr. W. P. Teskey was the next witness. He too is a member of the council. He corroborated previous testimony and said that the opinion of the town was almost unanimously in favor of the crossing.

To Mr. Bennett Mr. Teskey refused to say that the town had never considered the operation of the railway. Mr. Teskey thought the railway would be very little affected. In the last two crossings at that point would not have interfered with the railway requiring the cutting of trains, more than once or twice.

Judge Kilham asked how long the Sixth avenue crossing had been open. Mr. Teskey thought a year.

Mr. John Stevenson, a farmer living west of Clareholm, followed. He raised about 6,000 bushels of grain per year, all of which was hauled to Clareholm. The Third avenue crossing would mean a great saving. All the farmers wanted a crossing there, as it would save a half mile haul.

Mr. Bennett got the admission that the thing which first concerned Mr. Stevenson was the weigh scales. He had to go there first. Second avenue would not suit him better than Third. He passed Court street on his way into town. The weigh scales were what bothered him. But the weigh scales were in the most convenient place for him.

The trains would have to be divided at the Third avenue crossing. Four crossings in a mile would be reasonable if they were put in the right place.

Mr. McKenny another farmer, living three miles southeast of the town was called. If he had any business in town he had to come back from the loading platform in a round-about way. The scales could not be better located than they are now.

Mr. L. N. Wannamaker who is in the lumber business in Clareholm said a Third avenue crossing would save a very large amount of hauling. Mr. Moffatt had always been in favor of having a crossing there.

Mr. Wrong of Clareholm, testified that he had seen the lost dead and had handed it to the town clerk.

Mr. Frost, chairman of the local improvement committee of Clareholm said he Centre avenue crossing was of no use. The Third avenue crossing was the one the town wanted.

Questioned by Mr. Bennett, Mr. Frost said that the town had been sold by a private individual and carved up to suit himself. His view was influenced by the building conditions of the town.

Mr. R. W. Wallace, another farmer living east of Clareholm, who had been president of the Farmers Association said that the members of the association all wanted a crossing at Third avenue.—Calgary News

Vaccination for Blackleg and Anthrax in Cattle.

The disease known as blackleg in cattle, although entirely known to many extensive agricultural sections of Canada and not at all widespread in any district or province, annually causes quite extensive loss to the farmers. Anthrax, which is quite a different disease, although frequently confused with blackleg in the minds of many cattle raisers, is also the cause of serious loss of stock. The former disease is almost entirely confined to cattle under 3 years and is generally fatal. The latter attacks other classes of farm animals and the human subjects is not exempt from its infection which generally results seriously.

By the aid of science cattle raisers are now enabled to protect their stock against the maladies. As the human family is vaccinated against small pox, in the same manner cattle are rendered immune from Blackleg and Anthrax. The department of agriculture at Ottawa through the health of animals branch is now in a position to supply preventive vaccines for each of these diseases at the nominal cost of five cents per dose. Until recently, by special arrangement with extensive laboratories in the United States, these vaccines were secured at a reduced cost, and were placed in the hands of the Canadian cattle raisers at ten cents per dose for Blackleg vaccine and fourteen cents per dose for Anthrax vaccine. It is due to the fact that these preparations are now being made at the Biological Laboratory in connection with the Health of Animals Branch that they can be supplied at five cents per dose.

The vaccine for blackleg may be administered by any person by means of an instrument supplied by the department at fifty cents.

Anthrax vaccine, which is also supplied at five cents per dose, is more difficult to administer requiring a qualified veterinarian to treat an animal.

Cattle raisers who have fear of an attack of either Blackleg or Anthrax would do well to apply to the veterinary division general at Ottawa for the proper preventive treatment.

Best Medicine in the world for Cholera and Diarrhoea. "I find Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to be the best remedy in the world," says Mr. C. L. Carter of Skirum, Alta. "I am subject to colic and diarrhoea. Last spring it seemed as though I would die and I think I would if I hadn't taken Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I have been troubled with it since until this week, when I had a very severe attack and took half a bottle of the twenty-five cent size Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and I feel better now than I have for a long time."
